

KUHNE Group at K-Show 2025

Headed by the new owner father and son duo Peter and Felix Kuhne, KUHNE Group is presenting itself at this year's 2025 K-Show.

Titled with the slogan: 'KUHNE INTELLIGENCE', the German machinery manufacturer puts the focus on increasingly critical issues such as: Recyclability, sustainability, the saving of time and raw material as well as maintenance, flexibility and automatization. From October 8th til 15th, KUHNE invites present and future customers to witness all these developments in Hall 17, Booth A41.

KUHNE Anlagenbau will be presenting its unique 13-layer blown film head. The so-called Mo-con technology (pancake design) can resist process pressures of up to 1000 bar and is ideal for complex film structures, while at the same time being capable of working with all known types of resins. With just one line concept, a diverse range of products can be produced, such as lid and shrink films, thermoforming films, lamination films, or even ready-to-use films. All 13 extruders have the same size, which underlines the flexible and intelligent line concept.

KUHNE Maschinenbau will be presenting a 7-layer lamella feedblock together with an automatic die with fast changing capabilities and a NEO extruder.

The intelligent approach here is the corresponding control unit, featuring interactive and AI-supported manuals, as well as a new submenu on the HMI that displays multiple 'how-to tutorial' videos.

KUHNE Group additionally invites visitors to test and interact with a holobox, where presentations about changeability, flexibility, energy recovery and down gauging will be shown. Furthermore, a NFC (near field communication) table will offer visitors modern and cool ways to learn about KUHNE's automatic start up, recipe change and line stop processes. These line solutions become increasingly more important as finding skilled operators is a worldwide issue. A fifth info counter invites to try out our Smart KUHNE glasses, a tool automatically supplied with each line for new customers for easy remote support and service.

We are looking forward to present and witness all of this together with you, our partners, present and future customers, flanked with a local drink, a snack and a good talk.

Come and witness the future of extrusion machinery, come and witness KUHNE INTELLIGENCE!
